

TWO NEW PUBLICATIONS

from the Buckinghamshire Archaeological Society

MAY 2012

Last chance for Stoke Mandeville's deserted village?

IN THE PATH OF THE HS2 HIGH-SPEED RAIL LINE

If HS2 goes ahead as planned – and the government says it will – then what remains of the Saxon and Norman village will be swept away by bulldozers. Because HS2's 'line on the map' goes through the old church ruins and their quiet, deserted churchyard. This pamphlet outlines what we know about the original Stoke Mandeville – and what will be lost if current plans go ahead unchanged.
£2.00

A Buckinghamshire Connexion

LETTERS OF ISAAC D'ISRAELI OF BRADENHAM AND HIS CONTEMPORARIES

Letters charting the involvement of the father of Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli with several Buckinghamshire house and their owners: Farnham Royal, Hyde House, Doddershall Park, his own Bradenham House, with historian George Lipscombe and John Hull's school in Princes Risborough.

Extracted from the Bodleian Library and elsewhere by Thea van Dam. Bucks Paper number 18.
£3.00

Why not get an extra copy of this year's Records of Bucks for a friend or colleague?

RECORDS OF BUCKINGHAMSHIRE 2012 – VOLUME 52

Leading articles on Ice Age Mammals in central and north Bucks, Bronze Age loomweights, Hambleden Roman villa, Barons of C12 Bucks, Excavations at Walton Manor, the Black Death in Chesham, Turnpike road bridges... and much, much more.

First copy free to BAS members. Extra copies £16.50 including postage.
